

Getting Started section with links: Feature Explorer Demo, Installing Backbase Community, Understanding the Basics, A Backbase startup File, Creating a Basic Interface, Dynamically Load Content, Creating a BTL Form, Creating the Form Response, Attend Training, Commercial Support

Quick Reference section with links: Documentation, Documentation 3.x, FAQ, Tools

Active forum topics section with links: bsf:tree without label and value, bsf:calendar has well-known issue, Panelsets do not render in anything other than Internet Explorer, Strange problems with BB4 JSF, Is it necessary adding the tag <bjst:form> in each dynamic loaded subview?, The wizard does not work when I create a new backbase project, character encoding xml parsing issue, Localization Problem - Umlauts Does Not Work in FireFox, replacement for <stask

Forum post header: 29 August, 2007 - 10:19 — mark leung would you pls enclosed your code? 11 reads, Add new comment, Printer friendly version, Subscribe post

Forum post content: User robin earned 2 points! Total now is 6 points. User Senaka lost 2 points! Total now is 38 points. 28 August, 2007 - 21:05 — Kwooda I cannot get panelSets to render in anything except Internet Explorer. I have tried Firefox 1.5 & 2.0, Netscape 7.2 & 8.1, Opera 9.10 & 9.23, and Safari 3 (on the PC). I am using Tomcat 5.5.

Forum post content: 29 August, 2007 - 10:39 — Senaka HI Kwooda, HI Kwooda, This is a known issue, you need to set the attribute fullScreen with value true. Example. <bjst:panelSet rows="20% * 10%" show="true" fullScreen="true"> <bjst:panel style="background-color:#48E154" show="true" /> <bjst:panel style="background-color:#fffff" show="true" /> </bjst:panelSet>